chilewich

Over fifteen years ago, New York designer Sandy Chilewich introduced her first woven textiles to the international design community. Together with Joe Sultan, her architect husband and partner, Chilewich designs and produces a growing range of textiles. The collection is suitable for covering floors and walls, as well as windows and furniture in hotels, corporate offices, spas, restaurants and private residences. The firm's ongoing innovations in material development provide functional design solutions that are both modern and easy to maintain.

ENVIRONMENTAL INITIATIVES

- Chilewich uses renewable vegetable based compounds in its fabrics. The yarns and the fabrics made from them are called TerraStrand®
- Chilewich fabrics are low VOC and qualify for LEED points as they comply with the GreenGuard® program
- Chilewich products contain Microban® and inhibit the growth of mold and mildew
- All Chilewich Contract products have up-to-date Health Product Declarations

Wall Textiles

Durable and tough, our Class III Wall Textiles offer designers a new way to imagine vertical surfaces and are unique in being able to coordinate and match our floor coverings. Chilewich's Wall Textiles are used extensively by designers for hospitality and condominium properties to provide their clients with an easy-to-maintain wall treatment.

Wall Textiles in Mineral Frost. Gigi® Swivel Armchair: DWR. Shanghai Linear Pendant Light: West NYC Home.

Window Coverings

Chilewich's collection of textiles is used for roller shades and panel systems in both residential and commercial settings. Our collection of weaves and colors enhances windows, unlike any other material, with their shimmering qualities and reflection of light.

Window Coverings in Chalk Bamboo.

Upholstery Fabric

Chilewich upholstery fabrics are designed to provide elasticity, strength and ease of maintenance. Used for seating, wall panels or even headboards, these fabrics add color and texture through their bold weave construction.

Upholstery Fabric in Aloe, Grey Flannel, Espresso and Gravel Mini Basketweave. Phillipe Starck Stools: Emeco.

Basketweave™

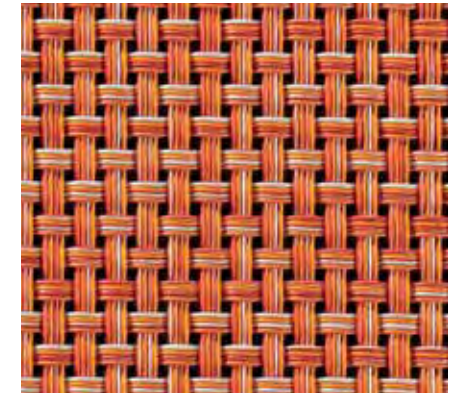

One of the oldest and simplest of weaving constructions, our four over four Basketweave has become our most important vehicle for expressing our unique color point of view. From deep earth tones to shades of metal to our own personal interpretation of brights, our signature Basketweave continues to be the foundation for our expanding collection of textures.

Bouclé™

Among all of our weaves, Bouclé most resembles a tweed texture one might find in a closet among sweaters, scarves or jackets. The colors for Bouclé are thoughtfully chosen to accentuate its intricate construction and provide a dimensional, rich, tactile texture.

Chain Weave™

Chain Weave is a textile interpretation of metalwork often found in elevator cabs. Woven with silver metallic yarns, this subtle texture provides an elegant sheen to any surface.

Frost™

The texture and the pearlescent colorations we chose for Frost feels almost glacial. It provides varying degrees of sheen depending on the intensity of the light source on its surface.

Ikat™

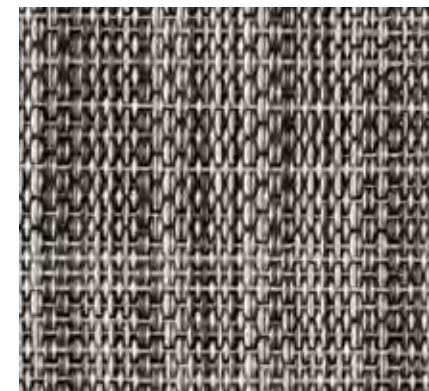

We took a leap naming our Ikat after one of the oldest known textiles of the world. The similarity is in the important role yarns play in both traditional ikats and our Ikats. Colors appear to vanish and then reappear in our Ikat design which is a result of carefully chosen contrasting colors in our bi-color yarns.

Lattice™

Lattice is our only weave woven on Leno looms. Our clear coated weft yarns become bumpy when extruded and therefore push our warp yarns in an irregular line, with an overall effect that feels naturally random. The clear coating provides an overall shimmer often likened to crystal and jewels.

Plaid™

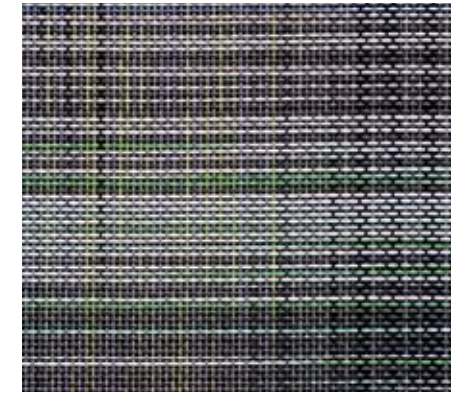

A unique feature of this bold pattern is that aligning the seams is not necessary. The Plaid collection uses a rotation of fourteen different colors in solid and bi-color yarns, so combining it with different materials and finishes such as wood, metal and ceramic is very seamless and simple. The weave boasts versatility as it works in any space from a convention hall, to a conference room, to providing a homey accent in a hospital waiting area and so much in between.

Speckle™

At first glance, Speckle almost appears as if it's a solid color, when in fact it features a delicate yet minimal pattern. The warp yarn subtly contrasts with the soft pearlescent silver speckles in the weft direction. The overall design appears discreet in a large expanse but intricate at a closer glance. The natural color shift between warp and weft adds a richness and level of interest to this quiet weave. Speckle is ideal for spaces in which the floor is a foundation for bolder interior design elements.

Stripe™

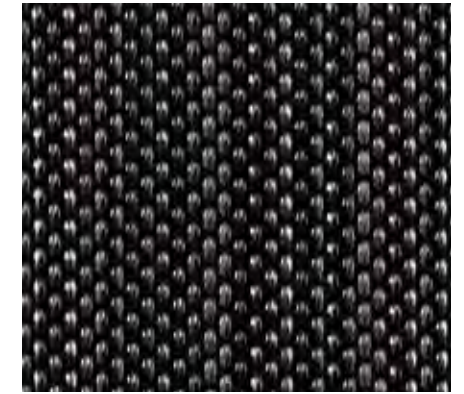

A carefully planned sequence of colors appears to look like a random stripe. However, the rotation is very deliberate and the overall effect, while appearing tonal, is in fact created with nine individual colors.
